LEVIATHAN LEAVES ON TRIAL TRIP!

Injunction Talk Dropped as Huge Vessel Warps Out

The Largest Steamer Afloat Leaves on "Million-Dollar Junket" With Shipping Board Guests Aboard

(By The Associated Press)

BOSTON, June 19.—The liner Leviathan sailed this afternoon on her trial trip to Southern waters with several hundred guests aboard.

Thick weather deprived persons on the mainland who had trained glasses on her anchorage of the opportunity of seeing her departure but officials gave word that she had started at the appointed time.

Injunction proceedings to prevent the trip failed to materialize notwithstanding reports that they might be instituted.

(By The Associated Press)

BOSTON, Mass., June 19.—Rumors that an injunction might be sought in the federal courts here to prevent the sailing of the Leviathan today on her trial trip could not be confirmed. A man who gave his name as Tyler telephoned to the local federal attorney's office yesterday and said he had been talking with Chairman Lasker of the shipping board on the telephone and asked whether any steps had been taken towards an injunction. Tyler said he had also conferred with Federal Judges Anderson and Brewster. The great ship transformed from its former role of army transport to a luxurious home for travellers lay spick and span at her moorings at the lower harbor ready for departure after leaving drydock yesterday. Some of the 600 guests spent the night aboard.

Italian Volcano Still In Action

Molten Lava From Main Crater and New Fissures Has Wiped Out Three Towns — 50,000 People Homeless.

(By The Associated Press)

CATTANIA, Italy, June 19.—The eruption of Mt. Etna continues unabated.

One stream of lava is now threatening Gravie, a city of 20,000 inhabitants at the base of the volcano and the population is leaving. About 50,000 have been made homeless in the area surrounding the volcano. The ashes cinders and stones emitted by the volcano are so thick as to darken the sun.

NEW FISSURES OPEN IN VOLCANO'S SIDE

(By The Associated Press)

ROME, June 19.—Gabriello Car-nizza, Italian minister of Public Works, has left for the devastated region around Mt. Etna, to assist in caring for the thousands who have been made homeless by the mighty mountain's eruption.

Hope was expressed today that Linguaglossa, which at one time resorted to be doomed by the lava was out of danger. Three little towns have been wiped out.

Eyewitnesses of the eruption, say that not only did the main crater break into activity but five new fissures appeared in the northeast side of the volcano contributing to the flow of lava on the forests and fruit groves that clothed the slopes of the mountain. Much timber has been destroyed.

Price Slope In Wheat Results In Calling Of Meet

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

CHICAGO, June 19.—Wheat growers with a surplus of 170,000,000 bushels in bins and elevators, their sickles sharpened and thrashers tuned ready to harvest another crop are skirting downward over an uncertain price slope and developing a baffling problem for economists to solve. Baffling enough that seven governors have called a national wheat conference which opened this morning.

Along with the governors who have come to take an active part in what they term a commercial crisis there are 500 official delegates from all sections of the country here for the opening session of the two day session. Because farmers are "in the midst of the greatest price slump in 50 years."

Representatives of agricultural organizations, dirt farmers, commerce, grain elevators, transportation interests, millers, bankers, insurance companies, bakers and implement manufacturers are all here to contribute their share in developing a solution to this far reaching national problem.

Governor J. A. O. Preus, of Minnesota, heads the list of committee members who issued the call, and will make the opening address. The chief executives of Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, North Dakota, Ohio and Oklahoma joined the Minnesota governor in calling this meeting. Others present are Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas; Senator-elect Ross S. Copeland, New York; C. S. Barrett, president National Farmers' union; O. E. Bradford, president American Farm Bureau Federation; J. L. Lowndes, Master National Grange; George E. Chamberlain, United States shipping board, and Aaron Sapiro, of California.

A sound analysis of the entire wheat situation will be made by men who have been selected especially because of their experience and qualifications to discuss the different phases of the great job of producing and distributing bread for the nation and world.

Senator Capper will discuss "The public and agricultural problems" and Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester Company "The inequalities of compensation." The European situation as it is affecting the demands for wheat will be analyzed by Dr. Alfonso T. Taylor, Stanford university, California. Edson White, president of Armour and Company will show the reaction of wheat to the animal industry in this country.

Samuel Compers will speak at the morning session. Wednesday he will point out the effect of the farmers purchasing power on industrial employment. George Jewett of the American Wheat Growers' Association, Inc. who is familiar with the northwestern growers' grievances, will discuss the "wheat" problem. Senator-elect Copeland will show "The place of wheat in the national diet."

New York Is Still Very Archaic!

With all her modernism, New York still clings to century-old methods—such as mounted flagmen known as "dummy boys." Here's a "dummy boy" halting a train on Tenth avenue which still has surface railroad tracks; these boys ride up and down the avenue warning autoists and truckmen, and when it's necessary to stop a train they station themselves in the middle of the track.

Identify Man, Posed As Woman, As Murderer

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 19.—Woman or man Mrs. Frances Carrick also known as Fred G. Thompson was identified today by Mrs. Richard C. Tesmer as the supposed woman bandit who shot and killed her husband in a holdup June ninth, first supposed to be a man disguised as a woman the prisoner was declared by Frank Carrick who with two others was arrested with the woman, to have lived as his wife since they were married 14 years ago.

Known as Mrs. Carrick at the time in the opinion of the police led a dual life as both man and woman masquerading as one or the other at different times. The police who referred to the suspect as a woman because of the unusual quality involved, announced that the medical examination of the prisoner would be made this afternoon.

The prisoner denied any connection with the Tesmer slaying or having been anywhere but in the Carrick apartment on the night of the crime. The suspect has black bobbed hair and showed evidence of being freshly shaved. In spite of mannish characteristics the prisoner had not aroused question of her identity the police said. When asked to reply to Mrs. Tesmer's accusation the suspect was quoted as saying "They've identified four or five other people at all times. This does not worry me just give me a bottle of Hauger."

Hughes Speaks For World Court

(By The Associated Press)

NEW HANOVER, N. H., June 19.—The permanent court of international justice constitutes a tribunal with standards that conforms to our highest courts. Hughes said here today, speaking at the annual meeting in connection with the commencement at Dartmouth College. "I make no doubt," Mr. Hughes said, "that the United States could today with greater satisfaction submit disputes to which it is a party to this court than to any arbitral tribunal it would be possible to set up."

Polling Places Are Fully Manned Early in Morning—Will Close at 7:28.

At one o'clock this afternoon the number of votes cast at the various precincts was as follows:

Wards	Votes
First Ward	102
Second Ward	152
Third Ward	52
Fourth Ward	235
Fifth Ward	64
Sixth Ward	66
Total	701
Total approximate vote—5,000.

With thirteen hours and 24 minutes allowed the voters of Danville in which to register their vote on two important bond issue proposals the $350,000 school proposition and the $50,000 sewerage, balloting proceeded at this morning. There was a light vote polled during the early hours. It was noted at several wards that the bulk of this early vote was that "of property holders, this indicating a general realization of the importance of the freeholders' ballot from in today's event. As pointed out yesterday, the amended city charter stipulating that in the two-thirds majority of voters necessary to carry the election there shall in this two-thirds be a majority of the qualified registered voters living really in Danville.

At one of the wards visited at seven o'clock, twenty votes had been polled, seventeen of those voters being property holders. While the same ratio was noted to be seen in other wards, the majority of the votes in other wards at an early hour was that of freeholders.

Election officials expressed pleasure at the response made by the judges and clerk of election, each of the city wards being fully manned when the sun rose this morning. Checkers were on hand early and as the morning wore on a good many women were in evidence at the polls working for the bond issue.

The polls will close at 7:28 o'clock this evening and it will probably be nine o'clock before the result has been tabulated and the outcome made known.

The approximate number of persons on the list in today's election is 5,000, according to the city treasurer. While more names than the above figure appear on the voting lists there are many people who have failed to comply with the final requirements and are not eligible. A survey of the list shows the names of 3,800 white people on the southside and 723 colored while in the two northside wards there are 2,131 white people listed and 255 colored people, making a total of 6,909 names on the city's voting list today.

The campaign for the bond issue came to a close last night with the parade of schoolchildren, a number of youngsters carrying appropriate mottoes being taken along the route in automobiles. It had been expected that the parade would be larger but the extreme heat militated against a better showing.

Proponents of the bond issue felt last night that they had done all that was possible to impress on the minds of the voters the necessity of providing larger school facilities through the presentation of authentic data showing the present needs. At the same time it was recognized that leaders of the opposition had done a good deal of quiet work before the final whirlwind pro-bond campaign had been started.

Throughout the morning those interested in seeing the bond issue carried were busy setting out the votes and impressing the minds of those who had not voted, the necessity of action warning against any degree of apathy.

NO REPLY AS YET MADE TO LETTER

No reply has yet been received by the Chamber of Commerce to its letter to the Marshall Field Corporation of Springfield, Ill., regarding the building of a storehouse for its use in this city. The Marshall Field people first broached the matter of warehouse in Danville and sent a representative to this city to find a suitable building. None could be found, but through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce enough capital was guaranteed to erect such a building provided the corporation would lease the building long enough to make the proposition interesting.

It is now rumored that the Marshall Field people are off on another tack, and are considering building a storehouse in Springfield. The corporation has been in need of warehouse space for some time and has been renting warehouse in other cities. Danville was first considered as a central shipping point and it is still possible that this city may get storehouse.

Richardson had acquired all the stock of the Leeland Motor company, an incorporated concern with quarters in Hazelwell alley just in rear of the Leeland Hotel property and will hereafter operate that business, selling cars and conducting a storage and supply house for automobiles. The new owners assumed charge of the business yesterday, having purchased it from J. R. Reagan, T. S. Hyler, and others composing the company, which was capitalized when chartered at $5,000. The consideration in the transaction is said to have been around $7,500. The company under its new ownership will press the sale of Humphries and Nash cars and will also have ample room for storage and care of the cars of patrons. Supplies and equipment for cars will also be carried, it is expected. While Mr. Tobin has not been engaged in the business, he has long been an enthusiastic motorist and is familiar with the mechanism and with the relative merits of motor-cars.

MISS MARCIA LEACH'S SUMMER IN SPAIN

The following from the society columns of the Baltimore News will doubtless be of peculiar interest in Danville.

"Miss Marcia Lewis Green-Leach, M. A., of Columbia University, New York, and daughter of Mrs. Leacy Noror Green-Leach, of 1814 Bolton street, sailed for Europe on Saturday, June 9th, where in company with Miss Brown, of Canada, Ph. D., and head of the history department of Wilkes college, Chambersburg, Pa., she will spend the summer in study and travel."

Miss Leach, as she is perhaps more generally known here, will be pleased to hear that she is a member of the Danville High school faculty during the 1932-33 and 1933-34 seasons, in which capacity she demonstrated brilliant intellectual qualities and equipment and social graces of a high order. During the past year she has had charge of the department of Spanish language and literature at Wilson college, and it is understood that while in Europe she will spend most of her time in Spain in order to perfect herself in Spanish conversation.

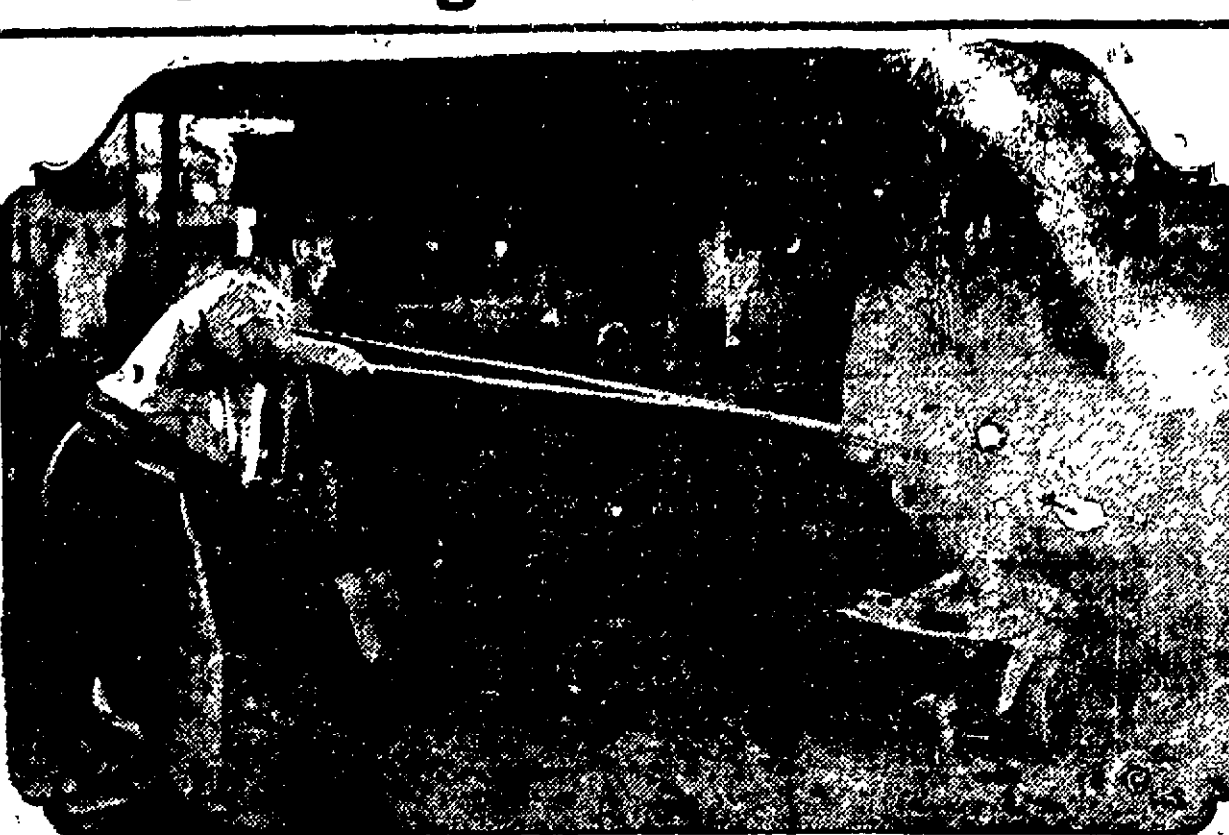

DANVILLE QUARTET MEETS IN LOS ANGELES

Two excellent kodak pictures have been received in this city from Mr. and Mrs. H. The pictures show Mr. Dodson, who removed to California several years ago and was recently married there; Eugene Rice and J. J. Speer, Jr., who had just completed their transcontinental automobile tour, and finally Percy Moss, a Danville boy now stationed at San Pedro, Cal., and attached to the U. S. S. Reiter. Needless to say this congenial group were drawn together by the ties of former residence and acquaintance. One picture shows the quartet seated in the motor car with which Mr. Rice and Mr. Speer had made their journey, while the other shows them standing in front of Mr. and Mrs. Dodson's attractive bungalow.

Mexicans Are Used In Labor Shortage In Steel Mills

SHOWING A FAMILIAR FIGURE IN A STEEL PLANT—THE PUDDLER HE TAKES A WHITE-HOT BALL OF IRON FROM THE FURNACE TO THE SQUEEZER THESE BALLS WEIGH 500 POUNDS AND THROW OFF TREMENDOUS HEAT AND LIGHT

BY HARRY B. HUNT
(Special to The Bee.)
GARY Ind., June 19.—Back of the plate mill and the tin mill of the mile-long reach of the Illinois Steel Company's plant here, between the smoking furnaces and the sloping waves of Lake Michigan, is Judge Elbert H. Gary's answer to the law restricting foreign immigration.

Here, housed in barracks and bunk shacks, exist hundreds of "workers" brought to Gary to meet the steel industry "labor shortage."

These are not "Hunkies" or "Wops" or the usual type of worker sought by the steel mills. They are Mexicans. And Mexicans, you may be interested in knowing, are not covered by the "quota" provision of the immigration law which restricts immigration from European countries to 3 per cent of the total of each nationality already in the United States.

The Gary Chamber of Commerce estimates the number of Mexicans brought here within the past four months at about 2,000. This is approximately the population of each of the largest two European groups—Austrians and Poles.

Herding these men in cars and bunk houses has produced a moral and sanitary condition that is awful, says Tom Polk, a social worker, who for years has devoted his life to helping instill American ideas and ideals into Gary's foreign population.

In addition to the Mexicans, the steel corporation has been importing southern negroes by the hundreds until now the colored population is more than double any single foreign group here.

Unlike the foreign groups, however, which normally herd by themselves forming districts which are essentially Austrian or Polish or Czech, the negroes and the Mexicans are more or less blended together in the same way.

On the subject of immigration, however, Gary, the steel town, disagrees with Gary, the steel man, no less than on the 12-hour day.

Gary, the town, would like to digest its present mixture of races to assimilate it and blend it into a consistent whole, before attempting to swallow many more thousands of widely different types and races. Unmistakable signs of indigestion have been caused by the latest dose of Mexican chili superimposed on an already weird Hungarian goulash. A new batch of raw spaghetti, borsch or green chili almost surely would bring an upheaval.

Possibly, the most efficient organization for giving the varied nationalities of Gary something resembling the American viewpoint is the Y. M. C. A., which organizes clubs and classes and contests among the various groups.

But here again real efforts at Americanization are hamstrung by the 12-hour workday.

"Sleep in School," an instructor for one of the night classes told me, "so weary they simply cannot concentrate. If it is winter and the room is warm, you can see them fighting off drowsiness, trying to stay awake, to follow the talk or the lesson. Soon they slump over, sound asleep, worn out."

"The actual physical wear on the men is tremendous. You'll see a big husky man go into the mills, and you can just watch him slide down, day by day. Judge Gary says the men have lots of time for rest. Where that is true the laborer must perform his work in rest periods so exhausting they could not possibly keep up without it."

Conditions in Gary are typical of those throughout the whole Calumet industrial District, comprising Gary, Hammond, East Chicago, Whiting and Indiana Harbor.

All plants are working at greater capacity than ever before. More steel is going out than in the busiest days of the war boom. The one great unsatisfied demand is for more men—mere men unskilled labor, willing to sweat 12 hours a day at from 30 to 40 cents an hour.

"Americans won't do it," the employment board here says. "What we need is 'Hunkies' and lots of 'em'."

And so the fight to get "Hunkies" willing to work long hours at low pay, is to be carried to Congress. In the meantime, the men must find the quota law and he's willing to work long and cheap, so we'll keep on importing 'em."

NEW SPLIT SHOWS
IN G. O. P. RANKS

BY CRAFTON WILCOX
(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, June 18.—The Democratic national committee is doing its utmost in the face of positive demands from official sources to create a sentiment throughout the country that there is a split in the Republican party.

John T. Adams is conducting a series of conferences with Republican party leaders with a view to linking the committee up against President Hoover. The World Court participation plan, Republican leaders reiterated here today that this is absolutely false and pointed to the fact that at the recent conference held by Chairman Adams with the English and Republican leaders at Boston the World Court was not even mentioned. They further state that the World Court plan will not be mentioned by Chairman Adams in any other conferences planned for the future.

Democratic leaders, however, are conducting organized propaganda in an effort to create a public impression that Chairman Adams is making a personal fight against the president and that the Democratic national committee to newspaper correspondents a statement in the form of "news story" renewing previous statements that the Republican national chairman was touring the country to oppose the president.

A Republican leader close to Chairman Adams said tonight that the chairman would not dignify the Democratic "news story" with a denial but that it was a "house of cards" built from beginning to end.

"The Democratic story," said the Republican leader, "is a part of the propaganda of the Democrats to make out that there is a split in the Republican party, a split which does not exist except in the minds of enemies of the administration. The Democrats 'news story' is a tissue of falsehoods calculated to further the propaganda in question and deserves no further comment."

situation, and the growing strength of the colored population, is causing no small concern to the authorities. There is in Gary today the makings of a race disorder that might overshadow anything this country ever has known. Already some dangerous sparks have been struck.

However, the importation of negroes and Mexicans to Gary just now is chiefly important in connection with the coming fight, to be made when Congress reconvenes, for a lifting of the present restrictions on immigration.

And the 12-hour day, against which the administration and the public generally are on record, is to be used as a lever in the attempt to force a loosening of the immigration barrier.

Maybe, Maybe—
"There are not now," says Judge Gary, "under the two-shift practice at the furnaces, enough men to meet the demand for iron and steel."

Hunts are given out that perhaps at 8-hour day might be considered if it were possible to hire enough men, at low enough wages, to make the three-shift day practicable. And it is hinted that this might be found practicable if restraints were taken off immigration. But these are only hints. There are no promises.

On the subject of immigration, however, Gary, the steel town, disagrees with Gary, the steel man, no less than on the 12-hour day.

Gary, the town, would like to digest its present mixture of races to assimilate it and blend it into a consistent whole, before attempting to swallow many more thousands of widely different types and races. Unmistakable signs of indigestion have been caused by the latest dose of Mexican chili superimposed on an already weird Hungarian goulash. A new batch of raw spaghetti, borsch or green chili almost surely would bring an upheaval.

Possibly, the most efficient organization for giving the varied nationalities of Gary something resembling the American viewpoint is the Y. M. C. A., which organizes clubs and classes and contests among the various groups.

But here again real efforts at Americanization are hamstrung by the 12-hour workday.

"Sleep in School," an instructor for one of the night classes told me, "so weary they simply cannot concentrate. If it is winter and the room is warm, you can see them fighting off drowsiness, trying to stay awake, to follow the talk or the lesson. Soon they slump over, sound asleep, worn out."

"The actual physical wear on the men is tremendous. You'll see a big husky man go into the mills, and you can just watch him slide down, day by day. Judge Gary says the men have lots of time for rest. Where that is true the laborer must perform his work in rest periods so exhausting they could not possibly keep up without it."

Conditions in Gary are typical of those throughout the whole Calumet industrial District, comprising Gary, Hammond, East Chicago, Whiting and Indiana Harbor.

All plants are working at greater capacity than ever before. More steel is going out than in the busiest days of the war boom. The one great unsatisfied demand is for more men—mere men unskilled labor, willing to sweat 12 hours a day at from 30 to 40 cents an hour.

"Americans won't do it," the employment board here says. "What we need is 'Hunkies' and lots of 'em'."

And so the fight to get "Hunkies" willing to work long hours at low pay, is to be carried to Congress. In the meantime, the men must find the quota law and he's willing to work long and cheap, so we'll keep on importing 'em."

THE BEGINNING

Dr. H. R. Edwards, of the state board of health, who is conducting the chest clinic, had more than he could do at the free chest examinations given yesterday, afternoon and evening at the Chest Clinic, at 10 o'clock and the one at Schoolfield at 8 o'clock.

About 15 are examined at the clinic held from 8 to 5 yesterday afternoon and around 20 at the evening clinic, a number of being turned away at both periods. According to Dr. H. R. Edwards, city health officer, several interesting positive cases were found.

NEW SPLIT SHOWS
IN G. O. P. RANKS

BY CRAFTON WILCOX
(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, June 18.—The Democratic national committee is doing its utmost in the face of positive demands from official sources to create a sentiment throughout the country that there is a split in the Republican party.

John T. Adams is conducting a series of conferences with Republican party leaders with a view to linking the committee up against President Hoover. The World Court participation plan, Republican leaders reiterated here today that this is absolutely false and pointed to the fact that at the recent conference held by Chairman Adams with the English and Republican leaders at Boston the World Court was not even mentioned. They further state that the World Court plan will not be mentioned by Chairman Adams in any other conferences planned for the future.

Democratic leaders, however, are conducting organized propaganda in an effort to create a public impression that Chairman Adams is making a personal fight against the president and that the Democratic national committee to newspaper correspondents a statement in the form of "news story" renewing previous statements that the Republican national chairman was touring the country to oppose the president.

A Republican leader close to Chairman Adams said tonight that the chairman would not dignify the Democratic "news story" with a denial but that it was a "house of cards" built from beginning to end.

"The Democratic story," said the Republican leader, "is a part of the propaganda of the Democrats to make out that there is a split in the Republican party, a split which does not exist except in the minds of enemies of the administration. The Democrats 'news story' is a tissue of falsehoods calculated to further the propaganda in question and deserves no further comment."

LEGAL FIGHT FOR FORTUNE LEFT BY BOOTLEGGER

(By The Associated Press.)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 18.—The legal fight for the fortune left by Martin Burke, a convicted bootlegger, who was murdered on the eve of his entry into the Atlanta penitentiary began here today when Mrs. May Munz, who claims to be his widow under a common law marriage, took the stand in common pleas court. Other claimants are brothers and sisters. He is popularly believed to have been worth $1,000,000.

Mrs. Munz is the widow of one of Burke's business associates who was killed in a street fight with policemen in Cleveland. The night after Burke's funeral in October 1921, she testified, Burke came to her home in Pittsburgh, and asked her to marry him, telling her that a formal ceremony was unnecessary. He explained the condition of his "business" was such that he did not want to announce the marriage at that time, she said, and in the presence of her father and sister, who had come from Buffalo for the funeral she was "married" to Burke. They simply stood up, she said, in the presence of her relatives and a few friends who happened to be in the house.

"Mr. Burke, took my hand," said the witness, "and said, 'May I take you, May Munz, as my lawful wife, so help me God.'"

"I held his hand and said: 'I take you, Martin Burke, as my lawful husband, so help me God.' He told me to say these words."

They lived in the house where Burke was called to the door and shot dead last November she said, the greater part of the time, although she also occupied her own quarters in Atlantic City with him for several weeks. She never appeared in public as Mrs. Burke, she added, because she was waiting for his business affairs to be straightened out so he could announce the marriage.

On cross examination Mrs. Munz said she did not immediately claim Burke's estate because she believed he had left a will making her his beneficiary. She said that after her marriage to Burke, she took out letter of administration on the state of her former husband, Munz swearing that she was a widow and signing her name "May Munz."

CLERKS REQUEST WAGE INCREASE

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, June 18.—The Brotherhood of Railroad and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers Express and Station Employees, concluded the submission of their request for a flat increase of 15 cents an hour in the wages of the Southeastern Express Employees today before the United States Railroad Board. The express employees' case was heard by G. C. Milam, Grand Vice President, who urged the board to grant the increase so as to place the wages of the Southeastern employees on an equal basis with those of the employees of the American Railway Express Company.

B. W. Hurus, counsel for the Southeastern Express Company, stated the introduction of rebuttal testimony and is expected to conclude tomorrow, after which the American Railway Express Company employees' request will be heard.

His case is of similar nature and involves in addition to the fifteen cents an hour flat wage increase, a revision of the rules governing overtime pay, Sundays and holidays.

ENOCH TRIAL DELAYED
RICHMOND, Va., June 18.—Delay in the report of the sanity commission appointed several weeks ago to inquire into the mental condition of Joseph Enoch, youthful railroad shop employee, indicted for the assault and murder of Celia Shevick, sixteen year old school girl, two months ago, caused another postponement of the trial today in Hastings Court. The case was continued to July 3, by which time, it was said, the commission probably would be ready to report to Judge Richardson. Both prosecution and defense have announced they are ready for trial.

Eyes Turned Toward Silzer For Presidency

New Jersey Governor Expected to Be Nominated By Democrats Because of His Stand on Present Issues.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
SEA GIRT, N. J., June 19.—Keep your eye on the Honorable George S. Silzer, able lawyer, circuit court judge for eight years, and now governor of New Jersey, progressive Democrat, 54 years old but looking ten years younger.

If the revolt against the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead Act, which is prevalent on the Atlantic seaboard from the Potomac river to the northern boundary of Massachusetts, should manifest itself to a parallel degree in other parts of the country there would be no occasion for surprise if Governor Silzer should receive the Democratic nomination for President. And it would not be surprising if he were nominated in any event.

The governor is a keen critic of the Harding administration. He believes the issues next year will be purely domestic, ranging from taxes to prohibition, and he holds some extremely definite views on the protective tariff which he thinks has boosted the cost of living, on governmental extravagance which accounts for high taxes and on other questions in which he finds abundant reason for advocating the reformation of the Republican party.

No less definite is the governor in analyzing and setting forth his views of the prohibition question. He stands for temperance as opposed to prohibition, for the use of the law to enforce prohibition, and he is unalterably opposed to the restoration of the saloon.

To accomplish a "return to sanity" Governor Silzer would be substituting the manufacture, sale or importation of intoxicating liquor in the Federal law if that definition is scientifically determined by a commission. The present definition limiting one-half of one per cent. of alcohol or more the governor regards not only arbitrary but a falsity.

It is such procedure as this that is not sufficient to restore beer and light wines. Governor Silzer would have a convention of the states assembled, under the terms of the Constitution, to propose an amendment to the Eighteenth Amendment, embodying the proposed modification.

I found the governor in golfing to be a man of the world, a man of the veranda of the summer executive mansion, maintained by the state at the National Guard encampment grounds here. Besides him sat his vivacious and brilliant wife who illuminated the conversation from time to time with flashes of wit and literary allusion ranging from Job to Brachylog.

He proved as approachable and cordial and unaffected as he had been described—a man of medium stature with twinkling blue eyes and smooth dark hair. He had just demonstrated that he could read the numbers on the rifle range a mile away as well as his 23-year-old son.

"Well, prohibition is only one of many issues that will confront the people next year," said the governor when I asked for his views on this burning question.

"It was the paramount issue in the election last fall in which I was elected, the issue was clearly defined and the position of the candidates unequivocal. The verdict of the people of this state clearly was against the kind of prohibition we have today.

"It is not difficult to understand the reason for this verdict. For we know that prohibition has brought in its wake, its bootleggers, its violation of and disrespect for the law, its ill-effects upon youth, its increase in indulgence in hard liquor by adults, its demoralization of public officials, its corruption of enforcement officers, its pernicious effect upon public and private conscience, its breeding of hypocrisy, its disregard for the rights of citizens and the depression of their cherished constitutional rights and privileges, its bad example to those in power, and its disregard not only this but all laws, its turning of our best citizens into participants in law violating, its trail of those who have been

Little New Orleans Girl Believes In Fairy Tales

(Special to The Bee.)

NEW ORLEANS, June 19.—Good fairies like sweet little girls, and they especially love curly haired May Parker. May's 11 year old. And all her young life she's dreamed of the brownies and sprites and garden men who were said to dwell in the pine trees far out in the country.

It's a good thing the fairies liked May, too, because what happened—

May's mother died. Her brother was killed by an auto. That left May and her daddy. But her father was sick and poor, and the best he could afford was a frail wooden house perched on the poorest section of this city.

She grew ill, because she knew good fairies liked them—and, well, the rent had to be paid.

Then the hardest blow of all City authorities came along and told her dad he'd have to go to an institution to be cured of his ailment. And that left May alone.

Yes, she cried a bit. And the tears quickened the hearts of the gnomes who dwelled in the pines, and they came.

One of them whispered to her that if she ask the help of New Orleans newspapers, a Fairy Prince would come and all her troubles would be over, and she would smile and laugh again.

That's what she did, and soon the giant presses of the city dailies were broadcasting the fairies' plea.

Clarence Bennett, wealthy young business man, heard the call. And now—

"The Lord has been good to me in recent years," says Bennett. "I have plenty of this world's goods. But I have no one to make happy—that is, not until now. I haven't a relative in the world."

"Now I'm going on a long trip, and I'm going to turn over my country house to May and her daddy. The house is in the thick of a pine region and I'm sure the father will get well. I'll support them both the rest of their lives, and I'll give May the best education I can. This is my big opportunity in life. And I'm going to make good."

And so little May is in the beautiful house shaded by the very pines in which dwell her wonderful fairies. She has an orchard and a garden. And an auto to carry her to the city when she wants to come. And the wind is whistling happily oh, there's so joyous!

British Rulers Closely Guarded

LONDON, June 19.—Americans who were privileged to see King George and Queen Mary off for Italy were struck by the number of secret service men and guards who accompanied the British sovereigns.

In England the king and queen are relatively safe from the hands of assassins and evil-doers, but when they are traveling on the continent they are much more carefully protected than the president of the United States when he leaves the White House.

Dozens of picked detectives from Scotland Yard kept a vigilant eye on the British rulers while they were in Italy. While the police of each country through which the royal party travels are nominally responsible for the protection of their visitors, the British authorities are not satisfied with this protection and insist upon a big retinue of their own trained sleuths. They recall that it was on the continent that an assassin attempted the life of the late King Edward. Only the prompt intervention of one of the king's guards saved the monarch.

Since Premier Mussolini came into power the Italian police have managed to keep the anarchists well in hand. Next to Britain, France is probably the safest country in which kings and queens travel. The French police, like Scotland Yard, have most anarchists marked and watched whenever a foreign potentate is on a visit. Queen Victoria declares she felt safer in France than anywhere else, even in England. She perhaps had in mind the English. She perhaps had in mind the fact that she was threatened several times in her own country, once by a madman with a stick, and on another occasion in Buckingham Palace by a lunatic who entered the palace unobserved.

Samuel Auspach Dies In Lynchburg

LYNCHBURG, June 19.—Samuel Garland Auspach, principal of the E. C. Glass high school, and for 13 years connected with the Lynchburg public school system, died this morning at his home, 506 Clay street, following an illness of several months. He was 54 years of age.

Mr. Auspach was born in Brandon, Miss., June 12, 1869, and spent his childhood there. He was a son of Frederick and Emma Graves Auspach, natives of Liberty (now Bedford) and was educated in the Bedford public schools, following which he entered Washington and Lee university, graduating in 1890 with an A. B. degree. Upon graduation he taught in Lexington where he married Miss Alice E. Waddell.

Later he was a co-teacher with Harrow Hart in the Roanoke public schools. After this, while head of the mathematics department of the Lynchburg high school he was elected superintendent of schools in Bristol and served there three years he returned to the Lynchburg high school as professor of Latin. He had taught a total of 31 years of which 12 have been spent in the high school of which he had been principal since 1915.

Superintendent of Schools E. C. Glass declared this afternoon that in the history of the high school there had never been a man more highly regarded on the faculty.

Huge Steel Tank Explodes; One Is Killed, 4 Injured

Factory Mishaps Are Heard By Commissioner

(By The Associated Press.)

Representatives of the State Industrial Commission are here today with Commissioner R. F. Beirne, of Clifton Forge, presiding, to hear evidence in four cases which are to be determined. Each of the cases involves injuries sustained by workmen while engaged in their usual pursuits and who are asking for protection under the Workmen's Compensation law.

E. O. Bond has instituted proceedings against the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills, Inc. He claims that both of his thumbs became paralyzed while operating a cotton manufacturing machine in the local mills. Arch McGibson files a complaint against B. S. Motley Co. Inc. for alleged injuries sustained in an elevator accident in May, 1922, in which he sustained hurts to his spinal column.

The third case is George G. Stuart versus the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mill Co. Inc., for alleged injuries sustained in a backbone sustained in an accident in 1921. Stuart now is living in West Virginia.

The remaining case is that of Elbert Yeatts versus the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mill Co. Inc. He is claiming compensation for the loss of part of one finger.

These cases are expected to be disposed of during the course of today's Commission. Beirne will hear the evidence and arguments both for and against the cases will be taken under advisement. The stenographic report will be prepared and then the record submitted to the medical adviser of the commission.

WIDOW PLUNGES FROM SECOND FLOOR TO DEATH
(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
YONKERS, N. Y., June 19.—Mrs. Marie Drathschmidt, ninety-seven, a widow, the oldest resident of Yonkers, plunged to her death Sunday through the second-story window of her Yonkers home. She either fell or jumped out. She had been restless for the last few days and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Drathschmidt, had been secretly watching her.

The woman yielded early Saturday evening and when her daughter-in-law looked in her room at 10 o'clock she appeared to be sleeping. She evidently got up later on and unlocked and raised the window. Her daughter-in-law heard a scream shortly after midnight, then found her.

Building Is Wrecked and Other Property Damaged—End of Tank Blown Half Block Away.

(By The Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 19.—One man was killed and at least four injured today when a large steel tank supposed to be empty and said to have come from the old Hixory powder plant, exploded in front of the Nashville Machine and Supply Company, practically wrecking the building and damaging other property in the vicinity.

Davis Zolthie, 51, employee of the machine company, was taking the nipples off the tank when it exploded. His body was blown across the street and badly mutilated. He died after reaching a hospital. Some of the injured are considered badly hurt. One end of the tank was blown half a block away and the tank itself was blown 75 feet.

TENDLER BEATS MORAN IN EIGHT ROUND BATTLE

(By The Associated Press.)
PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—Lew Tandler, Philadelphia, contender for the lightweight crown held by Benny Leonard, decisively defeated Paul Moran of New Orleans in an eight round bout tonight at the National League Baseball Park. Approximately 20,000 persons saw the contest.

Tandler gave Moran a good lacing, outpointing and outboxing him in every round, in the opinion of the majority of the newspaper men at the ringside. The Philadelphia crowd took the lead in the first round and forced the fighting to the end.

Tandler hit Moran almost at will, and sent many hard blows to the face and body. In the fifth round, he beat Moran, driving him to the ropes and frequently forcing him to hold. In the next round Tandler dropped his opponent with a left to the jaw, but Moran was up in a second or two and came back gamely. In the last round Tandler drove Moran from one side of the ring to the other but his blows, appeared to have lost some of their power.

Moran landed several stinging lefts to the jaw and rights to the body, but Tandler invariably came back fresh.

"Eczema broke out in pimples on my face and hands and soon spread all over my body. It itched and burned so badly that I scratched and irritated the affected parts, causing sore eruptions. It disfigured my face and I could not put my hands in water or do my regular work. I could not sleep at night."

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they afforded relief after the first few applications. I continued using them and in three weeks was completely healed."

World's Highest Residential Building

THE Shelton, now under construction on Lexington Avenue, between 48th and 49th Streets, New York, will stand 888 feet, 85 stories, above the pavement—making it the highest residential building in the world. It will be a modern city home for men, not only of New York but from other cities whose business brings them frequently to the metropolis. It is to be unique in more respects than size.

While falling within the hotel class, the building has been conceived by its owner, James T. Lee, as a city club house, having every facility, comfort and convenience which a club house requires in a club home. He and the architect, Arthur Loomis Harmon, have planned what is said to be the largest and most complete living house for men in the world.

While in no sense an altruistic undertaking, Mr. Lee says the Shelton is an attempt at providing the best possible conditions for men living alone in New York at the lowest possible price, and in the most convenient location.

A swimming pool, 25 by 75 feet, and a complete Turkish bath complex will be in the basement. Other basement space is to be devoted to bowling alleys. On the thirty-first floor are three standard, championship squash courts. Billiards, card, chess, checker and other game rooms, with private dining rooms and a library comprise the second floor.

An infirmary with a trained nurse in attendance is planned for the thirtieth floor. This will have a full surgical equipment.

GARVEY FOUND GUILTY OF FRAUD

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, June 18.—Marcus Garvey, who gave himself the title of provisional president of Africa, was found guilty tonight of defrauding investors of the Black Star Steamship Company. Three other defendants were acquitted.

Garvey, who has had a picturesque career in America after working as a dock laborer in Jamaica, was charged with having induced negroes throughout the United States to invest their savings in the steamship company which he headed.

His trial was marked with incidents that called for varying emotions, any of them humorous while others were of a more serious nature. Hardly had his trial got under way when Garvey discharged his counsel and undertook his own defense. Time and time again he was reprimanded by the court and time again the defendant's own witnesses gave testimony that in many quarters, was construed as evidence for the government.

MARKS BE TRIED FOR MURDER; WAS A WAR VETERAN

(By The Associated Press.)

PETERSBURG, Va., June 18.—Everett Marks, youthful veteran of the world war, will be released from the state hospital for the insane at Marion and returned to Dinwiddie county to stand trial for the murder of A. H. Heath and Melville Ford, who were shot to death on the night of February 25, 1927, according to an announcement made tonight by Commonwealth Attorney W. R. Stearn. Marks was indicted by the grand jury today Mr. Stearn said and will be brought back for trial at a special term of the Dinwiddie county Circuit Court on July 2. Judge Holt, of Staunton, designated recently by Governor Trinkle to preside at the special term, will hear the case against the youth.

According to testimony at the inquest, Heath and Ford were killed in a fight over the purchase of a quantity of whiskey. Marks, it was testified accompanied by W. H. Doyle, went to a rendezvous in the woods to meet Heath and Ford. Doyle testified that after a brief conversation Marks and the other two men disappeared in the woods. Later he said, he heard several shots. Marks did not return, Doyle said. A few hours later Heath and Ford staggered into the home of a relative, where they died.

Marks was indicted but he was never tried. He was kept under observation for several days and finally was sent to the Marion hospital, where physicians adjudged him mentally unbalanced.

RAIL PROBLEMS TO BE CARRIED TO THE FORMER

(By The Associated Press.)

CLEVELAND, June 18.—A traveling railroad museum, showing the evolution and present outlook of every phase of railroading in the United States, will operate continuously for four months over all the lines of the New York Central Railroad and its subsidiaries, leaving this city today.

The operation of the special train, a rail of the agricultural districts, along its right of way, is in direct response to requests from the heads of the American Farm Federation and the National Grange, according to the announcement made here by the railroad.

The announcement also says it is in answer to President Harding's official announcement made recently calling upon the people of this country to make a study of transportation with special reference to the railroads. According to the outline the train will be made up of cars containing moving picture cameras that will depict the growth of the railroad, the various business transacted by the railroad, with special stress laid upon the pictures showing the handling, from farmer to consumer, of farm products, and lectures on the present taxation system and the taxes assessed against both railroads and farmers, and how the basis of taxation is arrived at.

There will be one car devoted exclusively to the models of all the steam engines from the very first invented to the most of the big "Mikado 8000" that will pull the special. It is also announced that old "999" which broke the world's speed record in 1893, is to see service in drawing the special over side trips from the main trunk lines.

Arrangements have been made to have the school children in every town where the special stops, visit the exhibit and it is also announced the numerous stops will be made at the smaller centers in the agricultural sections.

JEWS SUBSCRIBE TO EAST RELIEF

(By The Associated Press.)

BALTIMORE, June 18.—Six million dollars have been raised in the past two years by Jewish organizations in the United States devoted to Palestine upbuilding, according to a report read at tonight's session of the Zionist convention here by Emanuel Neumann, general secretary of the Palestine Foundation. In addition to the $5,000 considerable sums were also expended in Palestine for relief purposes by the joint distribution committee.

An appeal launched on the floor of the convention, during the evening session brought $30,000 for continuation of the work of the Zionist Organization of America.

One of the events of the session was the address delivered by Mayor Ditzgenhoff, of Tel Aviv, the All-Jewish city of Palestine. Mayor Ditzgenhoff recalled how 12 years ago there had been on the present site of Tel Aviv nothing but sand dunes, whereas today there was a flourishing city of over fifteen thousand inhabitants, all of it Jewish, from the mayor down to the simplest municipal employee. Means of encouraging and increasing the use of the Hebrew language were also discussed. It was brought out that though many Jews are able to read their ancient and historic language only a very few are able to converse through its medium.

The victim is slowly improving but has not left the hospital to which she was taken as soon as her condition was discovered.

GARRETT MAKES PLEA FOR DECENTRALIZATION

(By The Associated Press.)

BOSTON, June 18.—A plea for a halt in the "mad rush" toward centralization of governmental functions was spoken today by Representative Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, at the Bunker Hill Day celebration. The speaker emphasized the performance of state duties by the states. "I would have the people do through the states all the necessary governmental things that can be done and would have the federal arm extended only to those things and themes which the states cannot reach," he said.

Pres. Harding Calls Meeting to Whittle Down Expenditures

Departmental Estimates of Necessary Amount Needed to Be Made—Must Be Cut.

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

WASHINGTON, June 18.—President Harding served notice at a meeting of the business organization of the government today that departmental estimates of necessary expenditures for the fiscal year 1924 must be whittled down to a point $120,000,000 below the appropriations for the fiscal year 1923. It is his desire, the President said, that the 1923 estimates, exclusive of the amount required to meet the reduction in and interest on the public debt and the amount required for the postoffice department, shall not be in excess of $1,700,000,000.

With reference to the fiscal year 1924, for which appropriations amounting to $3,700,000,000 have been made, the President declared that actual expenditures, exclusive of $507,000,000 for public debt reduction, must be kept within $3,000,000,000. On a basis of estimated receipts for 1924 of $3,038,000,000 this would make possible a surplus for the year above expenditures of $131,000,000. To reach this goal it will be necessary to make a cut of $161,000,000 in estimated expenditures. If expenditures should be made on the basis of $3,658,000,000 which is the total now estimated, there would be a deficit of $20,000,000.

Figures given by President Harding and by General Herbert M. Lord, director of the budget, disclose that the situation regarding the fiscal year 1923, which comes to an end on June 30, is even more favorable than has been anticipated.

The prospect now is that the fiscal year will end with a balance of ordinary receipts exceeding the expenditures by approximately $200,000,000, which is twice as much as the most hopeful had anticipated. Earlier in the year it was feared that there might be a deficit of $500,000,000 or more.

Besides closing the year with a surplus of $200,000,000 President Harding said that another signal achievement had been a reduction of approximately $250,000,000 in the expenditures of the departments and establishments engaged with the ordinary business of the government, over corresponding expenditures for the last fiscal year.

General Lord in his address related some incidents of waste and extravagance on the part of government employees.

One of the incidents General Lord described concerned an "Entomological" employee with an obsolete microscope who made from government rubber bands a ten pound ball as a plaything for his dog.

"It has now ample time for playing with the ball himself," said the budget director. "In one of the large bureaus of a department," General Lord continued, "there was great waste consumption of soap. Five barrels of government soap were located in the back of one of the bureau employees and three barrels in the home of another. These industries soap collectors are no longer in the federal service."

—Bart Carter, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carter, will undergo an operation for the removal of a tumor at the General Hospital tomorrow.

Mellon May Be Waq To Ask For Tax Reduction

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Possibility that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon may see his way clear to change his mind and to recommend tax reductions in his annual message to congress next December is being discussed as a result of the decided improvement in the financial condition of the government.

Definite figures on the probable status of the Treasury at the close of the fiscal year on June 30 are to be made public at the annual meeting of business heads of the government which is to be held tomorrow afternoon. President Harding who inaugurated these meetings with the adoption of the budget system, will present and with Director of the Budget Herbert M. Lord will address the gathering.

Instead of a deficit of several hundred million dollars as was in prospect several months ago it is the expectation that a fair sized surplus will be reported. This surplus had been made possible chiefly by the increase in customs and tax revenues, the former being due to the unexpected increase in imports, notwithstanding the higher duties of the Fordney-McCumber law, and the latter being made possible by improved business conditions.

When the fiscal year now coming to a close was commenced it was estimated that a deficit of $307,000,000 was in prospect. As additional obligations loomed up this probable deficit was swelled to $822,000,000 and some feared that it might run as high as a billion dollars.

The revenues actually received during the year have increased by more than a half billion dollars over the original estimates. The estimate for customs revenues was $350,000,000, but the total actually will be about $550,000,000. Internal receipts also have greatly increased over original estimates.

Lynchburg Man Commits Suicide

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

LYNCHBURG, June 18.—Charles C. Offordinger, 53, prominent meat dealer here, committed suicide in the Virginia hotel early yesterday morning by shooting himself twice over the right ear. His health is thought to have been the cause. Apparently he had been dead six or seven hours when his body was found.

Saturday night he closed his store and went home, later slipping away and was not missed until early Sunday. Then a search of the store disclosed a note in the store safe which told of his intention and then for several hours the hunt for him ended in the hotel.

EMWORTH LEAGUE NOW MEETING IN LYNCHBURG

R. M. Maxey, of Victoria on "The explosive power of a personal Christ." An informal reception followed on the campus.

The program tomorrow will start with communion service outdoors at seven o'clock, with classes to begin at 8:45 o'clock.

BEAUTIES OF INDIA ARE OLD AT 35 SAYS THIS TRAVELER

MRS. LILY STRICKLAND

(Special to The Bee)

NEW YORK, June 18.—Just see what happens to women who spend all their lives in beauty parlors.

Mrs. Lily Strickland, just back from India, says the temple dancers of India, who put physical beauty ahead of everything else, are old women when they're 35.

"Yes, and often they're old crones at 40," says Mrs. Strickland, who has just returned from India where she has been doing research work.

"Ninety-nine per cent. of the women there are educated exclusively along physical lines. Mentally they are children. Such interests as politics are closed books to them. Even the one per cent. of women who receive any sort of education in India, the girls who become temple dancers—called 'Nautch' girls—are taught only those things which will help them to be more beautiful.

"Figuratively they spend their lives in beauty parlors. Care of the body is an art. They bathe daily in olive or mustard oil. They perfume themselves heavily with the essential oils of jasmine and attar of roses, sandalwood and pungent amber.

"Yet with all this care and the lives of ease that they lead, these women begin to age before they are 30. They are old women at 35, and at 40 they have lost every trace of attractiveness."

Mrs. Strickland is well known as one of the leading women composers. Her Bayou Songs, an original combination of art and jazz rhythm, are no the concert programs of many famous singers. For her research work in the music of India she has been made a member of the Asiatic Research Society, the only woman to have achieved that honor.

Prof. Starr Says He Is Unkillable; Will Live To 120

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

CHICAGO, June 18.—Professor Frederick Starr, noted anthropologist, friend of kings and savages, widely known as an author, says he is unkillable. Yesterday he attended a banquet given in honor of his long service at the University of Chicago, from which he is retiring. Today he was busy dusting off his books and preparing to go to a bungalow near Seattle, which will be his headquarters. He plans to tour the continent again and write on many topics.

"I may say that I not only expect to live to be 120," he told a reporter, "but that I definitely will live to 20. It is written in my destiny. My mother lived to be 96. Her father lived to 83; her grandfather died at 87. I belong to that branch of the family."

"I lead a free life, often staying up till midnight. I do not diet. My only exercise is walking. Nothing that I can do or eat but one else can do, can end my day before I am 120."

He was asked what he would do if the fates failed him and he lived to 130 or 140.

"Impossible!" said the professor. "On my 121st birthday I would shoot myself."

Scenic Wonders Will Be Shown

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Plans for showing President Harding and his party the scenic wonders of Yellowstone National Park have been completed by the Department of the Interior through the national park service. President Harding will be the third President of the United States to visit Yellowstone. President Arthur having visited it in 1892 and President Roosevelt in 1903. By a coincidence these visits have been exactly twenty years apart.

According to the plans the party will arrive at Gardiner, the northern entrance, in the early morning of June 30 and proceed to Mammoth Hot Springs terraces. The party will spend the night at Old Faithful Inn and the following morning will proceed by motor to West Thumb. Lake Yellowstone and to the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone for lunch. Fifteen or twenty of the party will embark in boats at West Thumb for a short fishing trip. A fish dinner will be served this group at the Hotel Yellowstone and to the Grand Canyon and to the balance of the party. After an hour or two the party will motor through Dunraven Pass to Mammoth Hot Springs for dinner. In the early evening return will be made to Gardiner, where the party will have completed 145 miles of motoring.

On the President's return from Alaska he will visit Yosemite National park, devoting two days to viewing the magnificence of Yosemite valley.

Sleuth Buys Auto, Captures Thieves

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Sale of a stolen automobile to a Norfolk, Va., detective resulted in the recovery of eleven automobiles in that city, all of which are said to have been stolen in Washington.

The machines were recovered by Detective Henry Lord, who said they had been disposed of through a fence in that city. The automobiles, stolen by a gang of professional thieves, police say, were driven to that city and sold.

Ralph Hayman, Norfolk detective, bought one of the machines a week ago from his brother. Secret service operators later arrested the brother, Howard Hayman, charging him with violating the Dyer act. He was booked at Washington and released on $5,000 bond.

Good Morning Judge!

The police blotter this morning showed a great decrease in the number of violations in the city yesterday over Monday's docket. The docket was disposed of in short order.

The case of J. P. Bennett, Jr., charged with running over the small child of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Savage recently was set for Tuesday. The child has about recovered from his injuries.

Tiny Motley and James Jennings were arraigned for engaging in a fight but it developed that the two were best of friends and the disturbance was the result of only a drunken quarrel. They have made up and the assault warrants were dismissed but fines of ten dollars and costs were imposed for being drunk. Motley was arrested again this morning for being too drunk to be on the street.

Little Balze, colored, charged with operating a disorderly house, will be tried Saturday, a continuance being granted today.

Henry Karbrugh and Charles Foy, colored, were fined five dollars and costs for trespass on the Southern railway.

Ben Elliott fined $2.50 and costs for loitering. Wallace Dudley fined $21 and costs for exceeding the speed limit.

J. P. Penn, charged with violating the traffic ordinance, did not answer when his name was called.

Funeral Halted By Chauffeurs' Strike In Chicago

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

CHICAGO, June 18.—The postponing of a general strike of chauffeurs employed by the Chicago Motor Liverymen's Association in an effort to enforce their wage increase demands, officials of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs Union halted the funeral of Albert G. Lewis today and forced the driver of the hearse to take his vehicle out of the cortege.

The funeral was stopped until another hearse could be hired from an independent liveryman. The hearse was being driven by George Kieger, who is a member of the Chicago Liverymen's Association. His hearse had been hired by Fred Smith, an undertaker.

Earlier in the day officials of the Auto Liverymen's Chauffeurs Association notified Kieger's chauffeurs "to hang their caps on the hook and quit work." It was understood that owners would be allowed to drive their own machines. The trouble between chauffeurs and the liverymen's association originated from the refusal of the officials of the association to grant the union's demands for a wage boost for the chauffeurs. The union's contract with the association expired May 1 and negotiations for a new agreement have been in progress until a few days ago.

It is expected that the strike will spread and stop other funerals tomorrow.

Cunningham's Case Before Governor

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

Attorney Harry Wooding, Jr., who has been interested in the case of William E. Cunningham, now serving a four-year term in the penitentiary for a notorious assault on his wife and who recently forwarded to Governor Trinkle a petition bearing the signatures of nine of the men who convicted him has received a letter from the governor's secretary.

It has been asked to forward the address of the two jurors now residing here who did not sign the petition, this apparently with a view on the governor's part in asking them why they failed to concur. The reason why they no longer resides in Danville, it is believed that Governor Trinkle will make some definite decision in Cunningham's case during the coming month.

U. S. Baptists Leave Today For Sweden

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 18.—The exodus of American Baptists to Stockholm, Sweden, as delegates to the Baptist World Congress, scheduled to convene in that city July 21-27, began in earnest today with the departure of several of the transatlantic liners.

A party of 50 or more prominent Baptists sailed on the Pittsburgh for Bremen. Among these were Dr. W. S. Abernethy, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, Washington, and Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church of New York.

On the steamship Kungsholm, sailing direct to Gothenburg, a party of more than 100 Baptists took passage, most of them being delegates from Swedish churches in the United States. Others in the party included Dr. James M. Baker, who has spent 25 years in India, and Dr. Daniel G. Stevens, of Philadelphia, editor of the Baptist Publication Board, who is taking with him an extensive publication display, which is to be a part of the exhibit at Stockholm. For the first time in the history of the Baptist church an exhibit has been prepared that will feature the entire missionary, educational, publication and benevolent work carried on by the 11,000,000 Baptists of the world.

The adjournment of the World Congress, it is planned to send this exhibit on a tour of the leading capital cities of Europe, after which it will be brought to America for display at the 1924 sessions of the Northern and Southern Baptist Conventions.

A large party of Baptists from the Southern Baptist Convention is scheduled to sail on the steamship Berengaria, June 26, while the biggest party of all, from the Northern Baptists, will go June 30 on the steamship America.

Mother Prepares To Greet Bergdoll

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 18.—Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of the draft dodger Bergdoll brothers, was busy today preparing for the home-coming of Erwin, who will be discharged from the disciplinary barracks, Leavenworth, Kansas, Wednesday, after serving more than two years. She will not arrange a party for the returning son, she said today. Nor will she make any attempt to accompany him back, she added.

Mrs. Bergdoll is anxious to greet Erwin, she said. Last week she sent him a substantial check and saw to it that he had plenty of clothes. "I am anxious to see him to look after his case, so I can go to Germany to see Grover," Mrs. Bergdoll declared.

Grover C. Bergdoll has been in Germany since he made a sensational escape from army guard at his mother's home here several years ago. The mother said she had been told that Grover has taken a course in chemistry while in Germany.

"I got good news from Erwin last week," Mrs. Bergdoll added. "He told me he was bringing home a young man with him who is a good cook. He will be released from jail at the same time. I am glad he is bringing him here, because help is so scarce. I need a good cook."

Mr. Bergdoll is spending much of his time at Erwin's farm-at Broomfield, Delaware county. Adjoining this farm is one recently purchased by Mrs. Bergdoll from her son, Charles Erwin, who has a good name because of the notoriety attached to the family name due to the escapades of Erwin and Grover.

Boys Returning From Camp Now

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

A number of the boys who made up the party of youths, members of the Y. M. C. A., who have been spending the past two weeks at Camp Kent in Rockbridge county, returned to the city yesterday, taken by the out-of-door life they have been living. The remainder of the party, which is between 22 and 25 boys will return home with Physical Director George N. Savage on tomorrow.

Those who came back yesterday reported that they had a wonderful time. They have spent the two weeks taking life easy. Fishing, hikes and various games were foremost in the life of the campers. One of the longest hikes was by Louis Moseley, Harold Motley and Robbie Yeatts, the latter in charge. The three boys hiked to Lexington, a distance of nearly thirty miles. It was in the pouring rain but they went and for the occasion and did not mind this. They made the hike in one day, stayed over night, and returned the next day.

To Louis Moseley came the distinction of making the largest catches in fish. He has caught by the out-of-door life they have been living. The remainder of the party, which is between 22 and 25 boys will return home with Physical Director George N. Savage on tomorrow.

No accident or unfortunate incident occurred during the entire stay to mar the pleasure of the boys. It is said.

Doctors on Ships To Dole Out The Liquor and Wine

Tells Daughter, 15, She Must Have Beaux; the Result

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

CHICAGO, June 18.—"If you haven't a beau at 15, you haven't any prospects in life," said Mrs. Mary Plazynski, to her daughter, Annie, aged 15.

"But I don't want a beau. I'm still a little girl," answered Annie.

"Nevertheless," her mother spread the information that Annie was eligible and "six of the neighborhood 'Sheiks' began paying attention; then she refused to attend the rowdies with them, two of the Sheiks, on advice of her mother, adopted cave man tactics and gave her a beating.

This brought the entire mess into the court of domestic relations today. Annie told her story. She said her mother had ordered her to dress up smartly, put on a lot of ribbons and get herself a man.

"This isn't the old country," said the judge to the mother. "When Annie gets ready to have a beau, she is going to have a chance to get her own. You have no right to force men upon her and it must stop."

"As for you," he said, addressing the six beaux selected by the mother: "You will cross the street and attend to your own business when you see Annie coming. Until she gives you some encouragement, you are to keep away from her."

COTTON MARKET

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 19.—The cotton market was very irregular and unsettled early today following the big break of yesterday. Liverpool cables were lower than during the week, but much covering by recent sellers and it seemed that the lower prices were bringing in trade buying. The opening was a point higher on July and 55 points higher on August but generally 5 to 7 points lower and orders seemed to be well divided after the call with July selling of from 26.75 to 26.87 and then up to 26.64.

Cotton futures opened steady:

July	26.75
October	23.95
December	23.50
January	23.25
March	23.20

It was learned today that an additional $7,000,000 has been left to her by the will of Dellora R. Gates, of Fort Arthur, Texas, who died in New York in 1913. The will was filed today in Toronto. The estate was appraised at more than sixteen and a half millions, including $12,000,000 worth of securities in Texas. A brother of Dellora R. Gates also received $7,000,000.

Mrs. Norris is living quietly in a little cottage in St. Charles, going her own house work, going to the movies and enjoying life with her boyhood sweetheart, now her husband, who is an artist of considerable ability. It is said they are living entirely within his income and spending no part of her large inheritance.

Changed Telephone Numbers

Calls for a telephone number that has been changed or discontinued are referred to a special operator whose duty is to supply the appropriate information.

This special operator asks you: "What number are you calling, please?" This may annoy you because you have just given the number you desire and you cannot understand why you are asked to repeat it. But it is necessary in order to advise you of the circumstances.

THE CHANGING OF NUMBERS BETWEEN THE ISSUING OF DIRECTORIES IS ONE OF THE PRINCIPAL REASONS CALLS ARE REFERRED TO A SPECIAL OPERATOR. Numbers must always be changed when subscribers move to another central office area and sometimes when they change their class of service.

When you are advised that a number frequently called has been changed, IT WILL HELP IF YOU WILL MAKE A NOTE OF THIS IN YOUR DIRECTORY.

Geology Chair At V. M. I. Filled

(Special to The Register)
LEXINGTON, Va., June 18.—General E. W. M. I. Filled, announced today that the board of visitors at its June meeting, appointed Dr. Edward Steldman, of the University of Wisconsin, to the chair of geology and mineralogy department. It is stated that will lay the foundation for a new department at the institute, that of mining engineering.

Dr. Steldman is the author of numerous publications in the field of geology and mineralogy and he has done much field work in the Lake Superior region, where he was engaged principally in making a geological survey. He is fellow of the Geological Society of America, a member of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters, and of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

General Nichols also announced the appointment as assistant professors and members of the tactical staff of the following members of the class of 1923: Capt. B. F. Blain, of Lexington; Capt. H. E. Evans, of Richmond; and Capt. W. C. Shorter, of Callands, Va.

Prospects for next session are better than for any session in many years. The addition to barracks will have been completed before the session of 1923-24 begins and there will be ample accommodations for a corps of cadets of full numbers with two in a room, thus avoiding the crowding that has been necessary in recent years. It is stated that the number of upper classmen who will return also is larger than in a great many years.

The alumni hall, now well under way, will be a very desirable addition to the available facilities. It is also proposed, later on, to add a second story to the mess hall primarily to provide an armory for drills in bad weather. The dance and other social functions, now held in the gymnasium, will be held there. The armory will be constructed to supply twice the floor space now available in the gymnasium. This addition will be necessary for the alumni, as well as athletic field and stadium, as well as the hall at present being built.

During the summer many improvements will be made to the grounds, buildings, and a large amount of equipment put up in the laboratories. The horses provided for the mounted units have already been sent to pasture for the summer. The institute farm has made an unusual record this year. Prospects for a big crop of corn and wheat are good, and many cattle and hogs have been raised for use in the mess hall.

The institute summer school, at Rockbridge near Goshen Pass, will open its session on July 18. The session will close on August 28.

Six Persons Live as Twenty Refugee Families Perish

WHEN THIS PICTURE WAS TAKEN IN A BASEMENT ROOM OF A CONSTANTINOPLE REFUGEE CAMP, THERE WERE ONLY EIGHT SURVIVORS OF THE 20 FAMILIES WHO WENT INTO THE ROOM A MONTH BEFORE. THE TWO CHILDREN IN LEFT FOREGROUND BOTH DIED WITHIN A WEEK OF MALNUTRITION. PICTURE SHOWS MISS PAULINE ALLEN, AMERICAN DIRECTOR OF

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 19.—In the Room of Death, a single basement room a dozen miles from here, 20 families lived. That was a month ago.

Today six of these persons are living. All the others died. There were eight of them left when a photograph was taken of the basement room. Even then two were dying—a 10-year-old boy having only three days to live, and a little baby just a week of malnutrition, said Miss Pauline Allen, of Boston, director-general of the refugee camps. "They needed milk, and there was none to be had."

Pictures of distress like these were obtained by Charles d'Emery, of Stamford, Conn., in a survey of the Greek refugee camps in the Constantinople district for American relief organizations.

"I saw them dying," said d'Emery. "There were 1500 deportees from Smyrna and Anatolia, held virtually prisoners in a single camp until means could be found to remove them to Greek soil."

Hundreds of them were jammed into a stone building fronting on the shore of the Bosphorus. I managed to smuggle a camera past the guards. "A large room on the second floor of the building was 13 by 30 feet—and there were 200 people packed into it. Many of them were sick of typhus and smallpox. Despite all that Miss Allen and her helpers could do medical relief could not be found for them to save their lives."

"The worst suffering was in the basement rooms, all of which were under the level of the river. The most impressive of all—impressive from a standpoint of pity—was the room where 200 persons had been living. Where day by day the number dwindled until just eight were left, with two more marked with death, which came within a week after a picture of this scene was taken.

"This is only one of thirty or more refugee camps, where Americans are carrying on their charitable work. Over 100,000 is what is called the Barracks and Stables of Selmie, built during the Crimean War, 70 years ago. A stable that used to house 40 horses now contains a thousand refugees. There are 10,000 in all."

D'Emery, preparing a report of his survey blames politics for the plight of the Greek refugees. He says no immediate relief is in prospect.

NEW RULINGS ON SHIP LIQUOR IS NOW PROSPECT

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 18.—Officials here would not reveal details of the latest turn in the ship liquor situation by which the French Line expects to be enabled to bring wine rations into American waters under seal, but it was indicated late today that some new ruling was in prospect permitting the public health service to exercise greater discretion in the admission to American jurisdiction of ship liquor stores for "medicinal purposes."

At the French embassy it was said that the move was not regarded as constituting any actual change in the regulations recently promulgated by the treasury, and that the announcement made in New York by French Line officials apparently constituted a re-statement of the position taken all along by the French government, which has held that wine for use as crew rations should not be barred from French ships in American waters.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Ernest N. Buell a German war veteran, told a jury today that John M. Larsen, airplane inventor and manufacturer recently knighted by the King of Denmark for his aerial achievements, employed him last February to set fire to the Larsen plant at Central Park, Long Island, for the purpose of collecting insurance.

Buell was the star witness for the Commercial Union Fire Insurance Company which is suing Larsen to recover $18,000 which it paid him on a fire insurance policy. Other companies, which paid him a total of $180,000, are expected to sue Larsen if he loses this case.

WASHINGTON WILL REST WHILE HARDING'S GONE

(Special to The Bee.)

WASHINGTON, June 18.—President Harding's departure for Alaska on June 20 will be the signal for a week of rest in the capital.

Politicians and diplomats alike have decided there's no use staying in the sweltering capital while the "big chief" is gone.

Secretary Hughes, who will stick on the job through the summer, is one of the few exceptions.

Harding, incidentally, is "all set" for no less than 18 scheduled formal addresses during his trip. Probably the most notable of these will be that at Vancouver, British Columbia, on July 26. That will be an occasion for a real "keynote" address on American relationships and ideals.

Harding's visit to Vancouver will be the third occasion on which a

United States president has strayed from the soil over which he exercises sovereignty.

The first was when President Taft met Diaz of Mexico on the old International bridge between Brownsville, Tex. and Matamoros, Mex. Taft didn't actually get into Mexico, but his act was considered as the breaking of the century-old precedent against presidents straying from home.

President Wilson's trip to Europe for participation in the Paris peace conference shattered what was left of the tradition, making Harding's Vancouver expedition comparatively simple to arrange, although as Senator, Harding was bitterly opposed to Wilson's European visit.

The one bunch of American these days is an Italian. That is, he was an Italian before becoming naturalized. His name is Frank Pignone and he is by profession a master barber.

Frank's pride is due to the fact that Al Lasker has picked him as boss barber on the road ship Leviathan, which will resume European schedules after complete refurbishing.

July 4, Frank expects to continue to have many good men by the nose in his new job.

Certain Shriners played a long shot in psychology at the recent Washington convalescence—and lost.

The lid was on tight. The weather was hot, the sands were dry. Roy Haynes, enforcing prohibition, had back of his activities an edict from the president, himself a Shriner, to bar out booze at all costs.

So when they swung into step through the Garden of Allah, where Noble Warren Gamaliel sat in his red fez, their shoulders sagged and their tongues grew dry as they dolefully mournfully, lugubrously almost sobbingly rolled out the moving notes of "Tie Me a Knot."

But all it got from Warren was a smile. The lid wasn't loosened even a tiny bit.

Speaking of the Shriners, the one who felt most at home of the whole outfit was Mirza Hussein Khan Alai, Persian minister to Washington. Red fez and baggy trousers were as welcome to him as apple pie and flapjacks to an expatriated American.

Scientist Explains Its Tonic Effect Upon the System, Saying It Makes Dyspepsia Impossible.

In condensed form, the following is what Professor Willard H. Morse, M. D., F. S. S., a Fellow of the London Society of Science, wrote to Robert Halford, an eminent therapist:

"Munyon's Paw Paw is scientific in that it properly presents to the materia medica—the medical profession and to the sick and suffering the active principle of the fruit of the carica-papaya (Paw Paw) in its most digestible form."

"It accomplishes digestion easily and perfectly. It makes the most of the food. Makes the best of the food. Assures perfect assimilation. It perfects the several fluids that there do with digestion and makes it impossible."

"Munyon's Paw Paw does from the blood all faulty acids, because the blood made from the food treated by Paw Paw is a true vital fluid, which refuses to contain the acids, germs or poisonous taints, and as most diseases arise from impure blood, it makes all of them impossible."

If you are nervous, if you are weak, if you have indigestion in any form, if you have stomach trouble, if you cannot sleep, try Munyon's Paw Paw Tonic. It has stopped those conditions for thousands and

U. S. Baseball In Mexico Is Johnson's Idea

(By Chicago Tribune Service)
WASHINGTON, June 18.—Pan Johnson, president of the American Baseball League, is preparing to invade Mexico with American baseball teams and methods and it is believed possible that within a few years they may supplant bull fighting as the great national pastime of the Southern republic.

In reply to a letter from President Obregon in which the latter thanked Johnson for the baseball trophy which he had recently presented to him through Manuel C. Teller, Charge d'Affaires of the Mexican Embassy here, the president of the American League has stated that he hopes to have the opportunity to visit Mexico and that he is prepared to give a trophy for which the Mexican baseball teams can contend.

In his letter which was received by the American Embassy here today, Mr. Johnson declares that many persons in the United States are interested in the development of baseball in Mexico, and he expresses the belief that the award of a suitable trophy will aid in the progress of the game in the latter country.

The League status which President Obregon presented a few months ago to President Wilson which the Mexican president had shown to Mr. Johnson and a party of his friends who went to Mexico last year on a hunting trip.

The negro appeared in the room and while the woman fought and screamed, struck her on the head with an iron. Neighbors who thought they had heard screams arrived in time to see the negro leave the house and disappear into the bushes.

Spectacular But One-Sided Fight

Little English Master of the Ring Lasts Seven Rounds on Gameness Alone.

(By The Associated Press)

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK.

June 18.—Pancho Villa, fighting dynamo from the hips who was dethroned as the American flyweight title holder only a few weeks ago, rose to world's championship heights tonight, when he knocked out Jimmy Wilde, British holder of the crown in the seventh round of a battle that was spectacular from start to finish, despite its one-sidedness. A crowd, estimated by the promoters at 40,000, witnessed the second world's title to change hands at the Polo Grounds within a few weeks.

Rushing in and slashing with a terrific assault that had Wilde groggy and reeling in the first round, Villa's victory was one of the most decisive in the annals of world's championship history.

Wilde was but a shell of the once great boxer who had held "indisputed" sway among the little men of the ring for years. Only his marvelous gameness and the heart of a master ring man enabled him to last as long as he did. He stood up under the most deadly of attacks for six rounds, bleeding from cuts about his mouth and cheeks and with his right eye virtually closed. Occasionally he took the offensive but his punches were feeble, and failed to shake his opponent. But though his legs sagged at the knees and his body wavered under a devastating attack, Wilde's bulldog courage kept him in the thick of the fray, bloody and hopeless as a picture as he was.

Time after time Villa tried to measure a right cross as Wilde's guard dropped momentarily. The "mighty atom" fell like a log to the canvas and never quivered as he was counted to his out. Helpless, he was carried to his corner and there it took strenuous work for a few minutes to revive him. He was carried to his dressing room, where, still dazed and blinded, he was unable even to recognize his wife who rushed to him.

Sensing victory, Villa sprang from his corner and a wild out. He drove rights and lefts to Wilde's head, as the Britisher gave ground slowly still trying gamely but ineffectively to fight back.

The Filipino amazed that his opponent could stand up under such an assault, drew back and then shot over a right cross as Wilde's guard dropped momentarily. The "mighty atom" fell like a log to the canvas and never quivered as he was counted to his out. Helpless, he was carried to his corner and there it took strenuous work for a few minutes to revive him. He was carried to his dressing room, where, still dazed and blinded, he was unable even to recognize his wife who rushed to him.

It was another victory for youth over age. Wilde, the 31 years old title holder, was attempting to come back after two and a half years of ring idleness and he failed in the same ring where another, "veteran" Johnny Kilbane, recently lost his featherweight crown to Eugene Currier of France. Wilde's knockout, which came after one minute and forty-six seconds of the seventh round, was the second of his career. He took the count of ten in his last fight, in January, 1921, at the hands of Pete Herman, former bantam champion of London. But then Wilde was outwitted more than ten pounds.

Jimmy Wilde, British wearer of the world's flyweight crown, emerged from a long ring retirement tonight to defend his title against Pancho Villa, Filipino challenger, in a fifteen round match. A crowd of 40,000 witnessed the championship battle, according to Tom O'Rourke.

Wilde and Villa posed for a battery of camera men and then Frankie Genaro, of New York, who won the American flyweight title from Villa several months ago, was introduced as a challenger of the winner tonight.

Dave Shade, of California, recently elevated to the welterweight throne by New York boxing authorities, who took it from Mickie Walker and Johnny Dundee who is matched to fight Eugene Currier for the featherweight title on July 30, also were introduced.

Wilde weighed 109½ and Villa 110. Patsy Haley was the referee.

Round One.
They exchanged light swinging lefts to the head. Villa swung hard lefts and rights to head. Wilde did not seem to mind the blows. Wilde poked straight lefts to the face. Villa swung two rights to the head as the round closed.

Round Two.
Villa staggered Wilde with a right to the jaw and savagely attacked the body. Villa hit Wilde at will. The little Filipino was staggering the champion about the ring with blows to the head.

Wilde's swings went wild. Villa knocked Wilde to the canvas with a swing to the jaw after the bell had sounded and the champion was carried to his corner in 4 daze.

Round Three.
Wilde blinked his eyes and came out right to fight. The champion's punches lacked steam. He bled at the nose. Wilde evaded the champion's blows cleverly. They exchanged hard punches to the body in a neutral corner.

Round Four.
Wilde began slugging with the little brown to the body. Wilde took the offensive. Wilde drove Villa to the ropes in a rush. Villa fought him back with rights and lefts to the body and the champion was staggering again but fought gamely. Wilde landed an avalanche of blows on the Filipino's head but Villa never blinked.

Round Five.
Villa landed lefts to stomach and jaw. They engaged in a heavy exchange to the head. Wilde's sluggishness was leaving him. Wilde's right eye bled. Villa swung heavy rights to stomach and chin. Wilde landed a stiff right to the jaw as the round ended.

Round Six.
The game little Englishman took heavy punishment on body. A left to the face sent Wilde staggering into a neutral corner. Villa rained blows to the body. Wilde created against Villa's backhanded blows but the referee said they were fair. Wilde staggered from lefts to the face. His face was covered with blood, and he could hardly stand. Villa rained blows to his head and fell into his stool as the bell sounded.

Round Seven.
When Wilde came out he could hardly raise his hands to stem the tide of Villa's blows. He fought back feebly. His right eye was closed. The subornness of the Englishman kept Wilde standing.

After the terrible punishment, with both eyes swollen, Wilde dropped his guard. A straight in right swung to his jaw and he fell flat on his face. He was carried to his corner and brought to his senses after five minutes of hard work. He was barely able to lift his hand but he smiled when the crowd cheered the announcer's statement that Jimmy Wilde was the gamest loser in WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., June 18.

With the score standing 5 to 3 in favor of Greensboro, the Twins staged a rallying rally in their half of the ninth and by sending across three runs defeated the league leaders 6 to 5. Pitcher Hunter was sent to the mound by Leard but after he had walked one man and allowed one hit, he was replaced by Hengehold, who settled down after the third inning and held the visitors scoreless the rest of the way. RESTRICTIONS OF DETROIT CLUB FEW

DETROIT, June 18.—The place for a baseball wife is in the home. According to the management of the Detroit American League club, which has a rule barring wives of players from road trips during the playing season.

The Tigers are said to have fewer restrictions upon players than any club in Pan Johnson's outfit. There he has a rule against drinking, but players whose temperance interfere with their playing ability are sternly disciplined by fines and suspension.

Golf playing, forbidden by some managers, is not objectionable to the Detroit team management, which permits that players are at liberty to travel in the lake pastime, if they are not during the playing season. Several scheduled games and other duties of the baseball field.

Manager Ty Cobb, fortified by 17 years in the American League, has been a great authority on the development of baseball clubs. The Tigers, under his leadership, are one of the few clubs in organized baseball that does not have morning practice. Other pilots put their men through workouts before lunch, to keep their muscles limber.

Dempsey Works Out With Light Boys At Camp

By HARRY NEWMAN.
(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 19.—Well, they crossed the camp at the fight factory yesterday afternoon. It was announced that the champion would take another whirl with the big fellows of the stable but instead they sent in a hock of light kids to take the bang from Dempsey. George Godfrey, the giant colored scrapper and Jack Burke, the Pittsburgh light heavyweight were given a day off during the absence of Jack Kearns, who hopped over to Shelby in the morning to get the big quarrel into ship-shape for the Fourth of July.

The substitution of the light boys was done evidently with the idea of speeding up the champion who hasn't been going along in his usual form. The first thing that the champion did this afternoon was to spend quite some time on the light punching bag which he tore loose from its moorings several times before he tired of that pastime. Then for a brisk round of shadow boxing which Jack showed a little more speed than for several days.

Billy Wells, the clever English welter, was the first to step in with Dempsey for a two-round sparring and Billy said he provided the necessary hopping around for the champion. Wells is a rapid two-fisted shooter and he blazed away at Dempsey for keeps. However, the champion had a good defense for everything that Billy sent across and they gave a very good exhibition. It was noticeable that Dempsey tried a back-hand wallop quite frequently on Wells. The punch at its best is a clumsy arrangement and hardly becomes a great fighter like Dempsey. It sure would never get him anywhere in a battle against a man like Gibbons or any other heavyweight.

Herman Auerbach, a young light-weight from Salt Lake City and son of Dempsey's first manager, made his debut as a sparring partner and trotted in for two rounds. From the manner in which Dempsey handled the youngster one would be inclined to think that Jack had something against the old man and was trying to take it out on the kid.

In the first round Dempsey upset young Auerbach with a right clip on the chin and never did let up on poor Herman until he called time out. Auerbach showed his willingness to tear in at the start but that shot to the chin took all of the fight out of the Salt Lake entry.

Pointers Easily Beat Durham

HIGH POINT, June 18.—The Furniture Makers literally swamped the Bulls this afternoon by the one-sided score of 14 to 3. It was an uninteresting contest from the beginning since the locals piled up an eight run lead in the first two innings. Lowry allowed ten hits but kept them so well scattered that the Bulls registered only a trio of tallies. The hitting of Resco, Kahe, Thompson and Thrasher featured the latter with five bingles in as many trips to the plate. Meekin, of Birmingham, made his appearance with the Pointers today. He made a beautiful running catch of Stringfield's drive in the fourth. Irby is out of the game on the sick list. He is reported to be suffering from ptomaine poisoning.

Danville's winning streak of six games was broken by their defeat yesterday at the hands of the Raleigh aggregation. Perhaps, they too, can follow the lead of the Reds by jumping back to a winning stride after losing one game.

The Virginian infield was working all wrong, four errors being chalked up against them. These four not indicating the raggedness of their playing, according to the press reports. After all, the errorless ball played by Murphy's men during their consecutive run last week must have had considerable influence over the boosted win column. As one of the dopsters around the circuit has it, "Hitting is not all of the game, holding a check-rein on the other fellow's hits has something to do with it."

It may be the best to drop the "six straight" subject before someone reminds us of the trademark of baseball, "It is not what you were, but what you are."

"Baseball stars pick Dempsey to win over Gibbons," says headline. Shows how the modern baseball player's mind is working. The big guy first, last for all and forever. "Wee Willie" Keeler, the actor of the diamond, was once the star attraction and the most dangerous hitter of his day. Now it is the lumbering Ruth. Force prevails over science, so the stars pick Dempsey. Nevertheless, the champion has both force and science.

After years of victory and the gamiest fighting known to Scotland, Jimmy Wilde, the mighty atom, has dropped his crown to the whirlwind Pancho Villa, the little brown man from the Philippines. The atom from the first was the little Englishman, but the greatest ovation of the evening came from the 40,000 crowd at his senility in the face of known defeat. It was Kismet—the Eastern way of saying it must happen.

Floyd Trexler is respected at other places than Danville. Says Charlie Brown, who opines in sportsworld for the Greensboro Record, Carl Smith is undoubtedly the hardest hitter in the league today, but not quite so dangerous up there in a pinch as this here Trexler, of Danville. "We always thought Charlie's judgment in such matters was good," says Trexler connected with two more yesterday and boosted his average to .385.

Things are getting warm up around the Danville camp. Yesterday, they were handing the Patriots a defeat, the Pointers were trimming the Bulls. Although vanquished, Danville tenaciously hangs onto the .500 mark.

Although weakened by the sick and injured list, High Point is not yet "down-and-out." "Red" Irby is the latest Pointer to be added to the sick roster.

The Firpo-Hibbard battle in Mexico was what is sometimes referred to as a fluke. Firpo does not dissipate but his habits are not of the best, and critics are saying that the Ardent Argentine is taking Jess Willard too lightly. The big Kansasian, however, is staking his all on his preparations for the coming fight.

Over at Greensboro following Murphy's twoagers Saturday, they referred to him as "Hoibet." Wouldn't be surprised if Murphy don't get riled now and sock a few more.

The sport writers who "do their stuff" up in the big time are giving out facts to show that National League pitching has not materialized this season. That there are no Mattys, Alexanders, or Three-Fingered Browns in the lot of boys toiling there on the mound. Likewise there has been only on flood of its kind.

Torrey Gibbons is squeezing a tennis ball to get his hands toughened. Might make the sponge feel familiar like a few weeks from now.

AARON WARD

BABE RUTH

Ruth sure is versatile. He made a spectacular catch against the Indians recently that shut off a sure home run.

Aaron Ward is not only playing great ball around second, but his hitting is timely and hard. It was his single in the ninth, with two out, that won a recent game.

The Yanke have been in a slight slump since returning from the West. It has been largely due to Catcher Schang's absence. He is due back in the line-up next week.

Danville Infield Gets Rattled and Raleigh Wins 6-4

RALEIGH, N. C., June 18.—Danville showed a complete reversal of form today and the Capitals broke their winning streak by a 6 to 4 victory. The Virginian infield seemed to be working all wrong. Four errors were made by them and this even does not indicate the raggedness of the playing. They seemed to become upset in the third inning when a hit and one registered error resulted in two runs. The Capitals found out that they could rattle the Danvillians by the bunt method and this began to tap the pill just within the diamond. The Danvillians on each occasion sought to cut out a ran instead of getting the runner at first out failed and as a result four Raleigh players bunted and nobody was out. Twombly was not in his usual good form. Each side received the same number of hits—nine but the locals managed to put across six tallies while the visitors managed to squeeze in only four. The two teams will play again tomorrow afternoon. The box score of today's game follows:

NO SPECIAL SESSION.
RALEIGH, N. C., June 18.—Governor Morrison today shut off apprehension as to a possible extra session of the North Carolina General Assembly to consider a proposition for a state owned and operated steamship line to ply between North Carolina and northern ports when he announced that the special committee investigating the feasibility of the plan would require six months to complete its report.

PITCHER FRED HEIMACH STARS IN ROLE OF PINCH HITTER

Few major league pitchers are at all dangerous at the bat. With a minority of the star pitchers it is simply a case of swinging blindly at three, or permitting the umpire to call them out on strikes. Look at the major league averages and you will find the names of most of the pitchers bringing up the rear of the procession.

Of course there are a few exceptions. Walter Johnson is one of the few really great pitchers who is dangerous at the bat. There are perhaps a half dozen pitchers in both major leagues who are not soft picking as batsmen.

It is seldom that a pitcher is selected for the role of pinch hitter. That is the part essayed by Fred Heimach, crack southpaw of Connie Mack's pitching staff, formerly with Raleigh, in the Piedmont league. Fred not only can pitch but hit almost as well.

During the spring training, Heimach played the outfield in a

EUROPEAN STARS PRAISE AMERICAN TENNIS PLAYERS

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, June 18.—European tennis stars, with the visit of Tilden to Saint Cloud in 1912 and Johnston's participation in the International Hardcourt Championships here in May, have now all had an opportunity of seeing the two foremost exponents of American tennis at work, and their opinions as to the relative merits of their game vary as does the style of play of the two men.

The correspondent of The Associated Press asked the leading players assembled for the Saint Cloud tournament how they thought the two Americans compared.

Suzanne Lenglen was the first player approached. "Johnston of course, there is absolutely no comparison," was the great Suzanne's opinion. "Johnston is the greatest tennis player in the world."

Henri Cochet, France's ranking player and Davis Cup team member, said: "Tilden has a greater variety of strokes; he has everything that Johnston possesses, and in addition some strokes that Johnston lacks. I think he is the better man, and the best in the world."

Andre Gobert, the veteran French champion, expressed his opinion as follows: "Tilden's game is more spectacular, one likes to watch him play, but when one sees Johnston, he instinctively says to himself, 'How I should like to be able to play like him.' This is not the case with Tilden. I prefer Johnston."

Henri Darnsonval, the European professional champion, said: "Tilden is a better money player than Johnston. Count Balbi, Italy's second ranking player: 'I think Johnston is staidier and had it on Tilden by a shade.'"

Diemer-Kool, champion of Holland: "I think that Johnston can defeat any tennis player in the world." This opinion was given a few hours after the Dutch champion had been eliminated by the Californian in the Saint Cloud championship. "Mr. Diemer-Kool has never played against Tilden."

Jean Washer, the champion of Belgium: "I like Tilden better." Mr. Washer was finalist against Tilden in the 1921 championships.

"Dr. Luther Robertson and Robert Herndon are spending today at Patrick Springs."

Interpreting the Political Mood of America

David Lawrence will accompany President Harding on his trip to the Pacific Coast, making a close study of prevailing sentiment as it affects the great political parties and the aspirants for presidential honors in 1924.

No one is better equipped to interpret public sentiment on political and economical questions than is Mr. Lawrence. He knows public men intimately; he senses public opinion with keen discrimination—and writes his impressions with a directness and frankness that puts the reader in possession of dependable facts upon which individual opinion may be formed.

During this trip he will probe below the surface of crowd enthusiasm which always greets a chief executive, whoever he may be—to the undercurrent of public thought, where real opinion and potential influence are to be found. After the trip Mr. Lawrence will sum up with a series of sketches on presidential possibilities and impossibilities.

Mr. Lawrence's dispatches will appear exclusively in Danville in The Register—beginning Thursday, June 21st.

TOO MUCH RUM KILLS WOMAN

(By The Associated Press)
PODUCAN, KY., June 18.—An over-indulgence in drinking whiskey followed by use of heart stimulant caused the death of Mrs. Gladys Tanner Cook, 21 who died in an automobile near here this afternoon, was the opinion expressed tonight by city and county officials who investigated the case. Five persons, companions of the young woman on a motor trip, were arrested and held in jail pending a complete investigation. Mrs. Cook had been living here for the last three weeks. Her husband was said to be in Cairo, Illinois.

Million-Dollar Oil Blaze

Amaze whim of the wind prevented the burning oil which swept into the Alleghany River during a $1,000,000 oil blaze at Pittsburgh from destroying one of the main bridges connecting Pittsburgh with the north side industrial section. New Study Plan At Princeton Is Explained to Men

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

PRINCETON, N. J., June 18.—At the annual meeting of the National Alumni Association of Princeton University, today President Hibben explained to the alumni the new plan of upper class study and the plan of selective admission.

In dealing with these schemes he compared Princeton to a business corporation where raw materials and unfinished product constitute its interests. Particularly important is the problem of admission, for there are already more than 1,400 applicants for next year of which number not more than 600 can be admitted.

The keynote of the test for admission, according to President Hibben, "It is one who in his own personality will bring most to Princeton and is he one for whom Princeton can do the most."

"I now can pledge to our alumni a fair and most careful examination of every boy that applies for admission to Princeton," President Hibben said. The finished product, President Hibben told the alumni, is expected to be a Princeton type more adequately prepared for life under the new plan of upper class study which goes into effect next year for the first time.

"We are going more and more to throw our men upon their own initiative and responsibility on which they must depend in after-life," he said.

Answering the "three questions" which appeared most important to the new plan of study—first, that the standards are too high; second, that fine men who belong to Princeton by tradition will be cut out; and third, that the reputation at Princeton is campus contacts and not book knowledge—President Hibben showed how the new method will not only make the work easier for the men but will make it more interesting and profitable.

In reply to the first point he stated: "In the light of increased intellectual interest it should be easier for a student to attain a third group in the courses which he elects because he does not have any of the old days to attain a necessary fifth group when he had to wade through routine drudgery which he disliked."

To the second objection, President Hibben expressed his liking for this type of man, and his interest in their lovable personality.

As to destroying the ideal of gathering more than book knowledge from Princeton life, he said that he did not have any idea of restricting this phase of education and that Princeton's primary duty is "To turn that most delicate and most extraordinary gift from God to mankind—the human mind—into the greatest human instrument of power."

STUDY HOOKWORM IN VA. COUNTIES

MEETIN GFAILS TO FIND ANSWER

(By The Associated Press)

RICHMOND, June 18.—A resurvey of the counties which showed the greatest prevalence of hookworm in the first study of that disease in Virginia is now being undertaken by the International Health board, acting through the state board of health. Headquarters for the hookworm investigation are located at Emporia, with Drs. J. A. Kindwall and Marshall Thompson from the Johns Hopkins public health school in charge. The work is well under way in Greensville county, is being organized in Southampton, and will be extended to Brunswick, Halifax, Henry and Patrick counties. Five hundred children will be examined in each county, this number providing a dependable index to the prevalence of the disease. Seventy examinations reported from Greensville county show only three cases of hookworm infection.

After the survey is finished in Virginia other states will be studied through the international health board, and Emporia and the surrounding counties are being used as a laboratory to train physicians who will conduct similar work in states farther South. A number of these men, all of whom are public health students, having fellowships from the Rockefeller foundation, have already arrived in Virginia.

Hookworm, the state health department points out, is a pollution disease and easily cured. However, it can only be controlled through complete and continuous sanitation, as re-infection occurs easily. It is for this reason that effective local health work is imperative in the combat of this disease.

ROTARY CLUBS NOW IN SESSION

(By The Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, June 18.—Obedience is the foundation of patriotism, Walter A. Head, of Omaha, Neb., vice president of the American Bankers Association, declared at the opening of the fourteenth annual convention of International Rotary here tonight.

"To be truly patriotic," he added, "one must be obedient to the laws which the nation makes for the guidance and safeguarding of the interests of all its people, obedient to the conventionalities which good taste has and obedient to the ethical principles which character has put in practice for the mutual upbuilding of man's spiritual being."

WOMAN WOULDN'T EXECUTE BECOMES OWN EXECUTIONER

NASHVILLE, TENN., June 18.—Two weeks ago Governor Austin Peay of Tennessee refused the plea made by Miss Audrey Barnett of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., that the state execute her. Today she died at her home as the result of self-inflicted knife wounds.

"I am sick and can't get well and tired of living. Won't you, please, Mr. Governor, hear my plea and allow me to be electrocuted or drugged to death," the young woman wrote.

The executive arranged that she be treated at a hospital. After her release her first attempt at suicide failed.

YOUNG MARRIED COUPLE ARE ON MURDER TRIAL

NEWARK, June 18.—Facing trial in one of the most bizarre murder cases ever known in this state, John Creighton, 26, and his wife, Mary, 24, faced each other across the sunlit street today, the wife holding to the bars of a window, in the house of contention, their prison-born babe, while his father waved back from a cell in city jail.

Tomorrow morning the infant will be kept by the house of detention men so that its appearance before the jury which will be selected for the trial may not pull upon the heart strings of that body and influence the verdict to be rendered when the case is ended.

Creighton and his wife are charged with first degree murder and it was said today that the state will demand the death penalty if the jury finds husband and wife guilty of poisoning by the arsenic route, Charles Avery, 18-year-old brother of Mrs. Creighton.

WEEKLY BOOK REVIEW

AUTHOR FINDS SELF TRAPPED IN CELL OF PHILOSOPHY

BY JAMES W. DEAN.

NEW YORK, June 18.—In Madeira, a small town of the middle west, is a man who made concrete blocks, and built a house. He built a room at a time and when the building was completed he found he had one room with neither window nor door.

S. D. Hurst found himself in a similar predicament when he finished writing "Barney."

The units of Hurst's story are of first-class material, some of them the most dramatic I have read in some time, some of them, considered as separate passages, very sound in their logic.

The house builder found himself on the outside of the blind room. Hurst finds himself on the inside of his room looking at four solid, blank walls with no escape from the structure of philosophy in which he has trapped himself. Thus the book comes to a blind end.

Barney Hilliard and his bosom friend Dick Carey, are driven from their home town when the community indicts them jointly for an offense of which they were innocent.

They ship on a schooner to Victoria, B. C. In gambling houses they win enough to ship to Alaska and prospect for gold. For weeks they traverse the snow barrens seeing no white man, until at last they come to an Indian village where they find a white man as head of the colony.

During the night a tidal wave strikes the village. Barney and Dick escape, then return to see if others are living. The only survivor is Williams, the squaw man, whose back is broken and who is paralyzed from the waist down.

Although Williams was doomed to die and was hardly worth saving even had he been a whole man, the two prospectors put him on their sled and try to get him to the nearest settlement where Williams' brother lives.

Williams wanted to confess to his brother that in his youth he had murdered the girl his brother loved. The prospectors sacrificed their dogs for meat to sustain life. They do everything possible for Williams, but he dies on the trail, confessing to Barney before he goes on a bidding Barney carry the message to his brother.

But the journey ahead seems more than the adventures an accompaniment. The two men are at the point of complete collapse, they happen upon a deserted claim. They find a can of coffee and shoot a caribou.

Leaving the cabin they find ten bars of gold, one under the floor. After carrying the dead man's message to his brother, they return for the gold and set off for the prairies of Canada. There Barney, who has never loved, falls in love with a girl who has never been in love.

Barney and his betrothed ride out onto the prairie the day before their wedding is to take place. She is thrown by her horse and mortally injured, dying in Barney's arms.

Dick and Barney return to Victoria. They lose their money in gambling and Dick goes on to California to prospect for gold. Barney stays behind, guarding the gold and the roulette wheel in the gambling hall.

Barney meets his brother in the gambling hall. He knows the brother had been guilty of the offense that had ostracized him and Dick from their homes. He forces a written confession from his brother.

Dick sends for Barney to come on for his wedding. As Dick is about to introduce Barney to the girl, rival shoots Dick to death. Barney beats the murderer to death.

After taking Dick's body home and clearing his name, Barney returns to Alaska. He strikes a rich vein of gold, finds a mining camp, does as much as he can to help others and then plans suicide. He doesn't commit suicide because he promised his dying sweetheart he would not. There the story ends.

You may readily see from this bare skeleton of the story that Hurst has evolved a story of unusual plot and startling action in its condensed form. It seems melodramatic, beyond plausibility. Hurst is a master of narration. He makes you believe that he has actually experienced the adventures he relates.

Distributed throughout the narrative are dissertations on religion, philosophy and experiments in the occult. These are the things Hurst cannot make you believe it. They destroy continued interest in the narrative.

Barney believes in God, but he conceives God as a monster of cruelty, a master who finds great pleasure in bringing pain and sorrow to those he has placed on earth.

Barney is an egocentric individual who believes that he can master God, that he can defeat the Cause of being, and that once having accomplished that he can end his own existence which he considers only the mere frittering away of a small bit of duration.

Recalling his promise to his loved one, he dismisses the thought of suicide. "I wonder," he muses, "if the game would seem less of a bore if I thought less of myself and more of others? I beg your pardon."

All would have ended well had the book ended there. The philosophy had reached a conclusion, weak though it was. But Hurst goes on and ends Barney's existence against existence with these words:

"Death may not mean the end of us. And perhaps, if there is another life, I may be able to borrow a somewhere and get into heaven with it."

Despite this final futility, "Barney" is a book worth considerable attention and thoughtful reading.

If there has been anything more poignant, more deeply tragic, than "Cosmopolite" in recent poetry, it has not come to general attention. That poem is one of the collection by Georgia Douglas Johnson, a stifled cry of the colored race in America. They are gathered in a volume called "Bronze." "Cosmopolite" is as follows:

Not wholly this or that,
But wrought
Of alien bloods am I.
A product of the interplay
Of traveled hearts.
Estranged, yet not estranged, I stand
All comprehending;
From my estate
I view earth's frail dilemma:
Scion of fused strength am I,
All understanding.
Nor this nor that Contains me.

DEMPSEY SEEMS TO HAVE LOST HIS OLD-TIME PUNCH

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 18.—Is Jack Dempsey slipping?

That is the question that is today after his first workout with Gibbons more than one heated argument among the patrons of the fight game in these parts.

In the Dempsey camp confidence runs high. No one appears to question the ability of the champion to take care of his Fourth of July opponent.

His sparring partners are loud in their praise of Dempsey's work. Kearns talks confidently of future matches.

Jack's workouts have disappointed more than one of his ardent admirers.

He has been the target for the punches of sparring partners who would have been easy for the Dempsey that brought Willard low.

More than once has the crimson flowed from Jack's face during the few workouts that he has held in the past three weeks.

The old kyo punch that caused a steady stream of human punching bags to flow in and out of the Dempsey camp during the training periods of previous fights, has been conspicuous by its absence.

True, he has dropped several of his trainers. But they have bounced off the floor immediately. Very different from Toledo, Benton Harbor and Atlantic City.

MUSIC CLUBS BOARD MEETS

(By The Associated Press)
ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 18.—The United States and foreign possessions were redistricted today by the board of directors of the National Federation of Music Clubs for the purpose of re-organizing its general auxiliary board.

This redistricting and the appointment of district presidents to preside over each territory completed the labors of the board of directors which went into session Sunday to complete the next organization of the federation following the general biennial meeting last week.

Virginia is in the 12th district with Maryland, District of Columbia and West Virginia. Mrs. Perkins Malcomb of Virginia is the president.

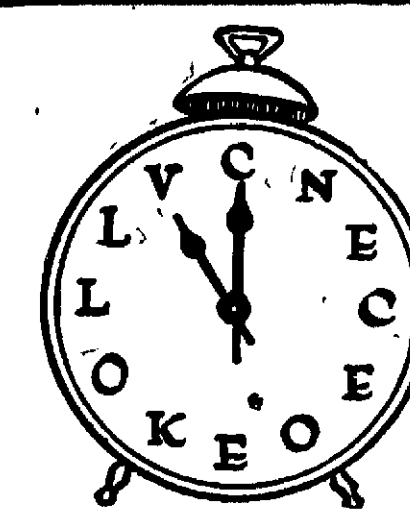

North Carolina remains in the eighth district while Tennessee is placed in the seventh.

Reappointed

Frederick I. Thompson, newspaper publisher of Birmingham, Ala., who has been reappointed as a commissioner of the United States Shipping Board. Mr. Thompson was first appointed by President Wilson in 1920 reappointed in 1921 by President Harding, who now extends his commission for another term.

Daily Puzzle

On the clock shown above, letters are used instead of numbers to denote the hours. Start at one of the letters, check it off, and count a certain number of letters around to the right. Check off that number to another letter. Continue until all the letters have been checked off. If you have started with the proper letter, and have used the correct "key" number, you will find that the 12 letters form two words, which give a very obvious answer.

Yesterday's answer:

NO MELON, NO LEMON

The line above, "No melon, no lemon," may be read either backward or forward, when the words "melon" and "lemon" have been inserted.

Honored

Mrs. Maggie Morris of Winfield, W. Va., is the first woman member of a board of equalization and review in her state. She was chosen in preference to two men applicants. She has been active in politics for several years.
